The goods, services, or construction has the following unique features, characteristics, or capabilities: Protection of the species and ecosystem has to occur where they are naturally found. Under the rules governing the NAPP program, HAR 13-210, the land must be managed by the cooperating entity or qualified landowner according to a management plan approved by the Board of Land and Natural Resources. The Board approved the Kanepuu Preserve Long-Range Management Plan for FY 2005-2010, as submitted by The Nature Conservancy, at the Board meeting of June 18, 2004.

How the unique features, characteristics, or capabilities are essential for the agency to accomplish its work:

DLNR/DOFAW has a mandate to protect the rare native species and native ecosystems found in Hawaii. These endemic species are often found on private land, or if found on both public and private, may be better protected on private land. Protection of these unique ecosystems on private land means the State does not have the extra expense of both buying the land and then managing it, itself.

The following other possible sources for the goods, services, or construction were investigated but do not meet our needs because:

An RFP was placed in newspapers requesting participation in the program. This was done to ensure that all landowners were aware of the program. However, once this project was approved and accepted, only the landowner their managing partner has the legal right to manage and/or direct activities on their own land. Another party does not have the legal right to manage and/or direct activities on someone else's land.
